How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

Although the Fund is not managed relative to any securities market index or benchmark, a discussion of the Fund’s performance relative to the MSCI USA Value (Gross) Index is included for comparative purposes.

Class R6 shares of GMO U.S. Opportunistic Value Fund +13.25% (net) for the fiscal year ended February 28, 2025, as compared with +15.92% for the MSCI USA Value (Gross) Index.

The bulk of the underperformance for the period was driven by stock selection within Health Care, Consumer Discretionary, and Consumer Staples. The Fund not holding Utilities also detracted.

Areas of value added included a mix of overweight allocation and stock selection in Financials, as well as stock selection in Communication Services and Industrials.

The gross expense ratio of 0.52% for Class R6 is equal to the Total Annual Operating Expenses set forth in the Fund's most recent prospectus dated June 30, 2024. The net expense ratio of 0.48% reflects the reduction of expenses from fee reimbursements. The fee reimbursements will continue until at least June 30, 2025 and may not be terminated prior to this date without the action or consent of the Trust's Board of Trustees. Elimination of this reimbursement will result in higher fees and lower performance.
