The Usonian Japan Value Composite includes portfolios that seek long-term capital appreciation over a full market cycle and measures its performance against the TOPIX Total Return Index. The strategy employs a fundamental, value-oriented approach to invest in Japanese equity securities. The Composite was created in August 2011.

The strategy is not limited in its use of derivatives; however the impact is typically immaterial. Both the use of derivatives and borrowing may cause a portfolio's gross investment exposure to be in excess of its net assets (i.e., leverage), which may subject a portfolio to a heightened risk of loss. During the period presented the strategy typically used none.

The internal dispersion of annual gross returns is measured by the equal-weighted standard deviation of account gross returns represented within the composite for the full year. For periods with five or fewer accounts included in the composite for the entire year, 'N/A' is noted as the dispersion is not considered meaningful. The three-year annualized standard deviation measures the variability of the gross composite and benchmark returns over the preceding 36-month period. For periods without 36 months of composite performance history, 'N/A' is provided for both the composite and its benchmark.

Performance results are presented both gross and net of investment advisory fees. The composite results are time-weighted rates of return net of commissions, transaction costs and withholding taxes on foreign income and capital gains. Returns for pooled funds included in the composite include securities lending income, if applicable. Valuations and returns are calculated and expressed in Japanese yen. All composite returns reflect the reinvestment of dividends and other earnings. Gross returns do not reflect the deduction of investment advisory fees or any other expenses that may be incurred in the management of this account. Net composite returns are calculated using a model advisory fee by applying the current highest fee to the composite's gross-of-fee returns on a monthly basis. Actual fees paid may be higher or lower than model advisory fees.

Past performance is not an indicator of future results.

The Tokyo Stock Price Index (TOPIX) is a broad market measurement of the Japanese equities market as a whole. The TOPIX is a capitalization weighted index that measures stock prices for all firms under the 'first section' of the Tokyo Stock Exchange (TSE). It is not possible to invest directly in the index and does not take into account trading commissions and costs.

As of August 7, 2020, GMO LLC acquired Usonian Investments LLC which had been previously managing the Usonian Japan Value strategy.
